

Mr. Powell: I am appalled at the prospect of your federal agency tampering with the present No Call policy in place in Wisconsin. I was outraged at the rulings of the FCC last year placing ownership of media outlets in the hands of a few greedy industry giants who just happen to be contributors to politicians of both parties. It seems that the current administration can't do enough for fat cats. You aren't fooling anyone. You should be ashamed, but perhaps that word isn't in your vocabulary. It hurts me to have to use such direct language to get my point across, but it's time the real taxpayers were listened to.

With deep concern, Mary Jo Wentz
